

THE INSTALLATION SEASON THAT NEVER ENDS: IT'S HOW WE DO BUSINESS

The sun is setting on summer, and with it goes the "ideal" construction season everyone rushes for. But here's a truth our most successful clients know: your project doesn't have to get left behind. At Capitol Aluminum & Glass, we're not just a summer operation.

We are a four-season field crew, and we've been expertly handling commercial window and door installations year-round for a very long time.

We are ready to get to work. Don't let the end of summer put your project on hold.

THE WHITE GLOVE DIFFERENCE

A major renovation doesn't have to be a major disruption. We understand your top priority is the safety and daily routine of your occupants and staff. That's why our installation crews are commended for their white glove service. Our teams work with you to meticulously plan every detail, from the moment we arrive to the final sweep of the work area.

We partner with building managers and facility directors to create a clear installation plan and timeline. This includes coordinating with your staff to ensure work areas are prepped and secured, preventing accidental access from occupants and visitors. This proactive approach ensures a safe environment for everyone and a renovation that proceeds smoothly from start to finish.

OUR COMMITMENT TO SAFETY AND EFFICIENCY

We understand that when it comes to your building, occupant and visitor safety is your number one concern. We share that commitment. At the same time, the safety of our own workers is also imperative, which is why Capitol crews perform installations during regular business hours and with daylight.

Working in the dark can become dangerous, provides less natural light for meticulous work, and requires more time to set up and tear down equipment. Ultimately, this leads to less work completed each day and a much longer project timeline for you. By working with our planned daytime schedule, we can ensure a faster, safer, and more efficient process for everyone involved. We lead with our expertise so you can feel confident in a flawless and secure renovation.

Your project deserves to move forward on a reliable timeline.

Don't let the end of summer put your plans on hold. Contact us today to learn how our year-round installation service can benefit your next renovation.
